

July 15, 1924

Gentlemen:

Your order dated March 21, for one copy of "Spanish Songs of Old California"--Flowers of our Lost Romance--has unexpectedly come to light. A search of our files and records fails to show that the Song Book was mailed to you or acknowledgement of your order written, at the time the order was received, therefore, under separate cover we are forwarding copy of the Song Book at this late date, and trust you will receive it in good order.

Regretting the delay, and thanking you for your order, I am,

Yours very truly,

St. Louis Public Library,
St. Louis, Mo.